Our Veterans Need Your Support

118,219. This number represents the number of veterans struggling with PTSD since 2002.

The RAND Corporation indicates combat veterans and survivors of violence, natural disasters, and terrorism have often experienced disturbing events that may lead to psychological trauma and post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD).

Additionally, current research from the National Center on PTSD indicate an urgent need to provide supports for Veterans with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder.

A Call to Action

The Waterstone Restorative Foundation is responding to the call through our Animal-Assisted Recovery Program. Our program supports individuals with drug dependency, addiction, chronic and debilitating diseases, and veterans with PTSD.

Our recovery program is focused on the use of therapy animals to help restore the whole person by providing affective education, behavioral

Waterstone Restorative Foundation

Mission:

Waterstone Restorative Group is a non-profit, 501c3, corporation committed to delivering resources to individuals living with stress, trauma and chronic disease.

We are convinced that effective programs need caring people in order to impart the hope that change is possible. All Waterstone Restorative Group members are hands on practitioners, directly engaged in teaching, supervising and delivery of supports.

The Waterstone Logo, an encircled Triquetra, depicts the three interlocking fronts addressed by our supports, each focused on restoring true joy, vitality, and hope.
